Panic-Stricken Patrons, In Missing Door, Crash Through Window

A RIOT ATTENDS A HOUSE OPENING

A Coffee House Opening At House No. 95 In Wireton Is the Scene of a Wild Orgy Shortly Before Midnight

A FREE-FOR-ALL FIGHT

Chairs Thrown And the Building Badly Damaged, It Is Assorted—Patrons Seized With Panic Dash For Door, Crash Through Windows

Constable Walter Wyatt and a squad of Monessen police answered a riot call at Wireton shortly before midnight last night, which resulted as an aftermath of the formal opening of a coffee house at House No. 95. The room was formerly conducted as the Idle Hour pool room and had recently been taken over and remodeled into a coffee house.

Celebrating the grand opening a large number of people gathered there from various surrounding towns and near the close of the evening a free-for-all fight started in which chairs were thrown and the building badly damaged, it is said. Fearing a serious result, one of the patrons ran from the building and fired three shots into the air. This immediately caused a panic and the patrons made a mad dash to the door. Some of them missed the door and crashed through the plate glass window, a number being very badly cut about the face and hands. Escaping in all directions, three of the injured men came to Charleroi and weak from loss of blood inquired at the local police station for a physician. They were held here and later turned over to the Monessen authorities, after their wounds had been properly administered to. Thirty-three arrests was the total number resulting, and they will have their hearing this afternoon before Alderman J. B. White.

AUTOS DAMAGED AND MEN HURT IN A COLLISION

One man was slightly injured and two automobiles were badly damaged last night at 7 o'clock when the two machines collided at the corner of Fifth street and McKean avenue. Amil Tuche of Monessen driving his car southward, turned his car in towards the station in the path of a machine coming northward on McKean avenue and driven by Earl Williamson of Twilight borough. Williamson's car crashed into the side of the Tuche car and both were damaged to a great extent. Art Sims of 109 Fallowfield avenue, an occupant of the Williamson car, was cut about the head from the flying glass. Both drivers will have their hearing this evening before Burgess J. B. Tussing at 7 o'clock.

ASKING MONEY TO HELP FIGHT SCOURGE

The Donora Board of Health has appealed to Washington county for financial assistance in fighting the present smallpox epidemic in that borough. Maintenance of an isolation camp for victims and the heavy cost of continuing the quarantine of over 100 persons, who have come in contact with sufferers from the disease, together with the salaries of more than 200 guards in the isolated districts have about exhausted the board of health treasury. One additional case, which brings the total to 15 sufferers, was reported to the board of health yesterday. The latest victim is James Brown, colored, one of the quarantined contacts who resides at the corner of Cypress alley and Eighth street, Donora, in the business district of the borough. Fiend Throws Acid In Faces Of Women

At an early hour this morning two Monessen negro women were severely burned about the face and arms when Jackson Howell, negro, of 193 Thirty-fourth street, Pittsburgh, is alleged to have thrown carbolic acid in their faces while they were standing in front of his home.

The two women, who reside at 1274 Morgan Ave., Monessen, Lillian Frye, aged 19, and Lena Savoy, 34, were taken to the West Penn Hospital, where their condition is said to be serious. One of the victims will probably lose sight of her right eye. Police are searching for Howell.

Howell is alleged to have thrown acid at the Frye girl, after she refused to marry him. The Savoy woman was standing along side of her at the time and received a great portion of the deadly acid.

TO TESTIFY THE STUDENTS SANE

Chicago, June 9.—Squads of officers from the office of State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe invaded the University of Chicago campus today, in search of students willing to testify that Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb, confessed slayers of Robert Franks, 14-year-old schoolboy, were sane.

Believing that their case against Leopold and Loeb is "absolute," Crowe's aides started a secondary "defense against the defense." Assured that Clarence Darrow, chief defense counsel will attempt to save the two young college graduates from the gallows by proving them insane, the state is making efforts to refute the testimony of alienists.

"We will get as many college friends of these boys as possible," Crowe's office said, "to tell what they know of the habits of Leopold and Loeb. We are sure that their stories will bear weight with a trial jury and will show that the murderers were of sound mind."

Crowe's staff, meanwhile, announced they had "new evidence" against the young intellectuals, who "just for the fun of it" kidnapped and killed young Eranks. The "new evidence," it was said, consists of pencil scribbled notes written by both Leopold and Loeb when their confessions were being read. Each took notes of the other's confession in order to check back on slight discrepancies.

Auto Turns Turtle; Men Are Injured

At 1.30 yesterday morning Joseph Wechosti and Paul Wasil, both residing at Gibson, a short distance from Beptleyville, had a narrow escape from probable death when the automobile in which they were riding overturned on a hill near Rogers station. The men had spent the evening in Charleroi, and were returning to their home when the accident occurred. Wechosti, who is 30 years old, driver of the machine, was attempting to drive his car up the hill and as he neared the top, lost control. The machine overturned and crashed to the bottom. Wechosti was pinned beneath the car and was rendered unconscious. Wasil escaped with a few cuts about the face, caused by flying glass. They were brought to Charleroi and Wechosti was taken to the local hospital, where it was found he was suffering from severe cuts about the head and face. His companion was taken home.

HEALTH BOARD BAR HUCKSTERS

Owing to prevalence of smallpox in Donora, the Charleroi Board of Health has barred the Donora hucksters from transacting business in this borough.

This measure was taken not as mitigation against Donora hucksters but to safeguard the residents of Charleroi from any possible contact with the malady as existing in the borough of Donora.

State Health Officer McKeown and the State Doctor this morning came to Charleroi from Donora to examine three colored men, who were lodged in the local jail. They had not been exposed to smallpox. These men, who gave their names as William Ogletree L. Ogletree and Leroy Richmond, were placed under arrest in a local store Saturday night, all charged with disorderly conduct. The 10 had hearings this morning at 11 o'clock before Burgess J. Bryant Tussing and were fined, William Ogletree $100 and costs and the other two $95 and costs each. The Ogletrees paid their fines, but Richmond, who also paid, was rearrested and taken before Squire J. B. Smith on a serious charge in which a colored woman is concerned. The case will be settled by Richmond marrying the girl, the wedding to take place this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

ARRESTS MADE IN A SHOOTING

Otis Freehng, House No. 211 and Boyd Morris, House No. 22, of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass company plant were arrested at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon by Chief of Police James A. Murphy and Officer Jack Thoms on a charge of disorderly conduct. It is claimed that Morris became infuriated over attentions paid his wife by Freehng. Going into his home Saturday afternoon he secured a revolver and fired a number of shots at Freehng, all going wild. The two men are incarcerated in the Charleroi police station awaiting a hearing, which will be probably given this evening.

$2,000 PICTURE FOR PALTRY $100

New York, June 9.—A painting sold twice for $100, has been identified as a Gainsborough worth at least $20,000. It now belongs to Grosvenor B. Clarkson. The painting is a portrait of Mrs. Garrick, wife of the famous actor. Two months ago the picture hung on the wall of a Fifth Avenue gallery. A yellow pointed slip on the back of the picture said it was a Gainsborough, but many dealers were inclined to scoff at it. While lesser works about the Gainsborough sold for thousands, the portrait went to an obscure dealer for $100. He wasn't satisfied, thinking he paid too much for it. Clarkson then purchased the picture for approximately $100. He called it G. Frank Muller, an authority on eighteenth century English paintings, who pronounced it a real Gainsborough.

BOY SCOUT TROOP RETURNS FROM HIKE

They covered a distance of approximately 225 miles on foot, and enjoyed the points of interest while enroute. In the group were as follows: Charles Hall, Edwin Hindmarsh, Harvey Loughhead, John Halstead, Leslie Henderson, Wesley Bosson, Norman Turnbull and Howard Hill.

Impressive Services Are Held In the Washington Avenue Presbyterian Church—Sermon Preached By Rev. Montgomery

HONORS HIS SO HE SPEAKS

Divine, In His Remarks, Says That This Country Is Great Largely Due to Services of the Veterans of '61-'65—Talked of Necessity of One Tongue

With measured tread and their eyes focused on the stately folds of Old Glory, the Veteran Guard of Charleroi, as an active entity, formally ceased to exist with the very impressive services held in their honor at the Washington Avenue Presbyterian church yesterday afternoon. The services were held at 2:30 o'clock, and the church was well filled. Music was furnished by a male quartet. At the hour named the three surviving members of Guard, members of the American Legion, Boy Scouts, and other organizations filed into the church and took seats which had been reserved for them in front of the edifice.

After singing by the audience and the rendition of congregational numbers, all patriotic in character, the sermon for the occasion was preached by the Rev. Frank S. Montgomery, the new pastor of this denomination. The Rev. Montgomery did not take a text, but introduced his remarks by saying that it was an honor for him to speak to the veterans of the stirring days incident to 1861 to 1865. In his talk the divine dwelt particularly in the glory of America and her institutions, and emphasized the fact that it is owing to the boys in blue of the Civil war that all these great things have come to pass. The war with Spain and the World war were glorious in achievement and reflects to those who won; but still, to the soldiers of the Civil strife, does America owe much of its present great status. Rev. Montgomery said that this country is a country of one flag, one language, and one loyalty, and that we have no use for the foreigner who does not conform to American ideals. No time for the hypenated foreigner.

At the sermon's close, the members of the Legion deposited their poppies in the decorated vacant chair, and Comrade Wise formally closed the service in behalf of the Guard. The benediction was pronounced by the Rev. Robert J. Shields of the First Presbyterian church.

PITTSBURGH STILL IN SLUMP; BEATEN AT N. Y. YESTERDAY

Johnny Watson tall right hander, who once inserted his slender form in a Pirate uniform and wore it for a few days, whitewashed his former mates from Forbes Field yesterday on their first appearance of the year at the Polo grounds. Not satisfied with simply holding McKeech's slumping crew runless, Watson decided his own contest in the second inning when he knocked a homer with the bases full. Another four-bagger later by Ross Young, when two were on the paths, chased the final score up to 7 to 0.

The game was cut down to five innings by showers, but it consumed as much time as the average nine-inning affair. Rain in the morning made the baseball outlook gloomy, but in spite of the threatening skies almost 10,000 people turned out and although the pastime was twice halted by the downpour the athletes were forced to take a drenching in order that the receipts might not be weighed down by a batch of rain checks.

KELLYS WIN IN

10 FRAMES HERE ON SATURDAY

In a game which was replete with errors, marked by the wildness of Latrian who was in the box for Charleroi, a home-run drive into the river by First Baseman Winters of the visiting team, an unassisted double play by Gatz, shortstop for the visitors, and the shortstopping of Krosnoff, who has returned from college in West Virginia, the Richard Kellys of Pittsburgh defeated the Charleroi club here Saturday in 10 innings by a score of 9-8.

The struggle was a hectic one, in which Charleroi should have won hands down. The score was 7-4 in favor of the locals when the visitors went to bat in the first of the seventh. Consenry, who was placed at shortstop in lieu of no one else to fill the position, was off color. Consenry is a catcher and an outfielder, and has never played the infield, and he demonstrated early in the contest that he is no infield guardian. In the seventh he fumbled a ball, in an attempt to make a double play, the result resulting in filling the sacks, and along came the dangerous Winters who is the best hitter on the Kellys team, and after two strikes had been called on him drove the sphere into the river, scoring four runs. Charleroi tied the count in their half on a hit by Honst, but the visitors won out in the tenth.

In this game Latrian allowed but seven hits, but he gave five bases on balls. On the other hand Charleroi touched Kramer for 13 hits, and made out two errors while the visitors with their seven hits made six errors. The score:

Jackie Coogan as a little Belgian boy with baggy trousers, funny little cap, great clumsy, clattering wooden shoes and patched jacket with large buttons of assorted shapes and sizes—Jackie Coogan as little Nello, the immortal hero of Ouida's story.

Jackie's medium in this, his second Metro picture, is "A Boy of Flanders," adapted from Ouida's story, "A Dog of Flanders," and the adaptation has been made with the greatest skill. The story is reproduced on the screen with a fidelity that is rarely observed and not a single episode of significance, drama, comedy, pathos or thrill is missing. While the climax, in the snow-storm that sweeps over Flanders fields and buries the Cathedral steps at Antwerp in a deep cover is one of the most poignant and appealing that has ever been screened.

Only at the Top

Some of our eastern visitors seem to have made up their minds at home not to be impressed by the wonders of California. A suspicious old lady from New Jersey had literally "turned up her nose" at everything she saw in the state, but round it difficult in the presence of the big trees of the Calaveras grove. However, she did the best she could. "Aren't they high?" her niece exclaimed. "Only at the top," said the old lady.

A Mail Ad Will Do The Work

Samoa Women Happy and Not Overworked

The life of a Samoan woman is pleasant. She is neither overworked nor savagely treated, says Edward A. Salisbury, in Adventure Magazine. From her earliest childhood she is trained in the intricacies of the siva-siva, and all her life the dance is a source of pleasure to her.

Samoa women will always dance for you if you ask them, and they show by their smiles and songs how much they delight in granting the request. In their girlhood they deck themselves with flowers and garlands of leaves and are fond of coquetry, but, unlike their Polynesian sisters of the Marquesas and Society Islands, they are chaste.

Before the coming of the Americans with new medical theories, the life of an infant was doubtful, and even now the old customs are carried out in some villages, it is said. The new-born child was laid on its back and three flat stones were laid around the head. To make the baby beautiful the family thought it was necessary to flatten the forehead and nose. Nothing is uglier, they feel, than our hideous, pointed "canoe noses." The baby was fed with filtered coconut juice for three days, while a "wise woman" tested the mother's milk. Often the child died.

Spices in Demand in Early Days of History

The tantalizing flavor and piquant qualities of spices have made them sought after from the earliest days of mankind, and an adjunct to civilization at all periods.

In the early days of history spices were worth fabulous sums, owing to the difficulty of obtaining them and the high cost of transportation.

When Alaric the Goth conquered Rome in 410 A. D., says the New York World, he asked as a ransom 3,000 pounds of pepper, then worth more than its weight in gold.

The first organization of dealers, it is said, was the "fraternity of peppers," and it was in the Fourteenth century that the name was changed to the "guild of grocers," which depicted on its coat of arms six cloves.

Venice at its height traded in spices to the amount of $10,000,000 annually, and it vied with Portugal in securing cargoes from far eastern ports. Columbus was bound for the spices of the East when he chanced upon a new continent, and Vasco da Gama, the famous sea fighter, made one of his most important voyages to secure a cargo of pepper, cinnamon and ginger from India.

Light and Dark Stars

Two hundred millions of millions of miles away is a star called Algol. It is the second brightest star in the constellation of Perseus and it has the curious habit of varying in brightness at regular intervals.

After much research we know now that Algol consists of two stars—one bright, the other dark, says London Tit-Bits. They are each about a million miles in diameter and about two million miles apart. They revolve around one another and when the dark star is between us and the bright one the light we receive from the latter diminishes.

There are several other stars of the Algol type, and it is simply through our researches that we are aware that there exist in the heavens dark stars—stars which give no light at all and are in themselves totally invisible.

How many there may be we do not know, for it is only by their eclipsing bright stars that we can recognize them at all.

Get Loans From "Aunt"

In Paris and other big French cities the pawnbroker is called "my aunt." In France one needn't blush in doing business with the pawnbroker, for he is the state; that is, the government conducts the pawnbroking business. It does it very well, too, if I am to believe the testimony of some Americans who have "traded" with "My Aunt" while awaiting delayed remittances from home. "My Aunt" has had a good year's business. She does little business nowadays with the working man, for he is always in work. The center of poverty has moved. It is the white-collar brigade which, unable to make both ends meet, resorts to "My Aunt." Oddly enough, "My Aunt's" shop in Paris is on "the Hill of Piety." Not a misprint for pity.—A. E. L., in World Traveler Magazine.

Franklin's Thrift

We hear a great deal of Benjamin Franklin as the great exponent of thrift, remarks the Kansas City Star. Historians recall, however, that the great scientist-statesman was not always thrifty enough. In his refusal to patent his famous stove, he was wasteful of his own and the public's profit. He wished his idea to be given free to the world, and so did not protect his invention; an Englishman made some changes for the worse in the Franklin fireplace, secured a patent on it, and reaped a fortune from the sales.

Fear Alligator's Tail

In several of the southern states alligator farms are maintained for the purpose of using the hides for shoes and other leather articles. It is said that the keepers of these creatures are more in fear of their tails than their heads. When attacking an enemy an alligator will try to strike first with its powerful tail before using its cruel teeth.

PINCHOT AND MELLON.

In a public address on May 11, Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania attributed to Secretary of the Treasury Mellon the failure of prohibition enforcement and declared that the Secretary's interest in the Ovaltine distillery should bar him from his office, plainly implying that Mr. Mellon had been guilty of grave personal misconduct. Commenting, the New York World said that in his own as well as the government's interests Secretary Mellon should demand an investigation. In response Mr. Mellon wrote the World that Governors Pinchot's charges were too vague to be taken seriously and challenged him to make them specific. The latter was followed from Governor Pinchot to the World failed to make the specific charges Secretary Mellon had demanded, but again brought a general accusation of the official failure of the Treasury Department to enforce the prohibition laws.

Governor Pinchot also returned to his attack on Mr. Mellon personally, saying in part: "I repeat what I said at Springfield, that I do not know whether it is legal for a man who has been in the whisky business for forty years, and who still has an interest in large quantities of whisky, to be at the head of law enforcement, but I do know that it is wrong. In spite of everything that Secretary Mellon could do to prevent it, a Senatorial investigation of the Enforcement Service has been ordered. That will take care of all the details the Secretary asks for." As the task seems to be virtually an impossible one, Secretary Mellon, whatever the extent of his effort, could hardly have prevented what Governor Pinchot describes as the "dismal failure" of prohibition enforcement, but in view of the circumstances and the changes an investigation would unquestionably seem to be desirable, and it is well that the Senate has ordered it.

Many Uses Are Made of Centrifugal Force

When you get rid of the water in a mop by twirling it round you make use of one of the most important mechanical forces. Centrifugal force, as it is called (it is pronounced "cen-trif-ugal," by the way), drives the water from the mop just as it drove the stone that killed Goliath from David's sling.

An object, once set in motion, wants to continue traveling in the same direction, and resists any attempt to change this direction.

A stone tied to a piece of string and whirled in a circle pulls harder the faster it is whirled. If the string breaks, the stone will continue to travel in the direction it was moving at the instant the string broke; it would travel in a straight line were it not for the pull of the earth, which finally brings the stone to the ground.

When turning a corner on a bicycle you instinctively lean inward; if you didn't centrifugal force would upset you.

A motorcar turning a corner at high speed would run on the two outside wheels, and the inside wheels would be lifted from the ground. Cars turning corners quickly are often shown in drawings with the outside wheels clear of the ground, which is quite wrong.

Many uses are made of centrifugal force; the modern cream separator collects the fat particles from the milk by its action.

The little governor that regulates the speed of a gramophone depends on it.

And the ever-popular "roulette wheel" flings off its occupants by this force.

Residents of St. Kilda

Rely on Birds for Food

St. Kilda, fifty miles west of the Outer Hebrides, is only three miles long and two miles broad, and, being very rocky, its inhabitants have to be pretty wide awake to make a living. To a great extent they depend upon sea birds for their food supply, and one fowler has been known to catch 620 birds in a single day.

The fowler sets out with a long deal pole, five or ten feet long, with a horsehair noose at the end camouflaged by gannets' quills. Puffins are numerous on the island, and the fowler creeps as near the birds as possible without giving them the alarm, thrusts forth his rod along the ground, works the noose close to an unsuspecting puffin, and very dextrously drops the noose over the bird's head and secures it.

The birds are treated much like herrings, except that they need a preliminary plucking. When that is done they are split open, kippered and hung in long strings across the cottage ceiling. In this way they will keep for an indefinite period, and provide a puffin breakfast at a moment's notice.

In the study of the Washington Avenue Presbyterian church a quiet wedding of interest took place this morning at 7:30 o'clock, when Miss Elsie P. Schramko, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. U. Schramko of 814 Fallowfield avenue, and James J. Hersche, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Hersche of 606 Fifth street, were united in marriage with their pastor, Rev. Frank S. Montgomery officiating. GREAT DAY AT A LOCAL CHURCH

Yesterday was a great day in the Christ Lutheran church. In the morning Dr. King delivered a helpful sermon to the children, his subject being "The Four little Things of the Bible." In the evening, the service consisted of recitations and songs. There was a Children's choir of about 30 voices.

The decorations were unique and beautiful. The canaries seemed to vie with the children in their singing. The recitations and songs by the little folk were, to say the least, far above the average.

At the evening service the pastor and D. A. Worthington made short addresses. The committee having in charge the training of the children, evidenced what training will do.

BOY MURDER IS A MYSTERY

Philadelphia, June 9.—Police early today had failed to find a clue to the murderer of the three-year-old boy whose body was found on a doorstep here Sunday. Likewise, no success had yet been attained in the attempt to identify the baby.

The body, stuffed in a suitcase, was found on the doorstep of the Albert Ellis Printing company, Sunday morning. The jugular vein was cut and the body horribly bruised. The child had been dead about 12 hours when found, physicians said.

Police believe the body was brought here from some other city and police of other places have been asked to aid in the search for the killer.

RAILROAD TORPEDO GOES OFF INJURING A BOY

George Protz, 10-year-old son of Mrs. John Protz, living on a farm in Ella Hollow, Rostraver township, Westmoreland county, was painfully injured last week while playing with a torpedo signal cap. The boy had found the cap along the railroad and took it home. His father was seriously ill with pneumonia and the boy was sent outside to play. He remembered having the cap and decided to experiment. Persistent hammering exploded the metal pellet and the child's right hand was painfully lacerated. Dr. W. C. Byers of Webster, administered first aid. Infection was prevented through the use of tetanus antitoxin and the child is recovering and will experience no permanent injury. The father of the child died shortly after the accident occurred.

Observe Children's Day In The Washington Avenue Church

HERE'S PHILOSOPHY ON A NAGGING WIFE

"A fellow can run away from a nagging woman, but God help him if he gets a nagging wife," exclaims Ernest Truex in his role of Gilbert, Sterling in Elmer Clifton's production of "Six Cylinder Love," which William Fox will present at the Majestic Theatre, today and tomorrow.

You will not wonder at the youthful husband's ejaculations when you get a shot of Florence Eldridge (as Mrs. Sterling) in action.

Florence vamps her husband into buying an automobile. He doesn't want to, but she does. And then Sterling takes his wife in his arms, with a happy smile, declares "everything is going to be all right." It is, this time.

The annual Children's day services were held in the Washington Avenue Presbyterian church last evening.

This was one of the most enjoyable services ever held in the church. For years this church has had an enviable reputation with regard to Children's Day. This is shown by the attendance. As early as 7:15 the people began to congregate and long before the hour for the services to begin the church was crowded to the doors. Chans were placed wherever possible and many were turned away for want of standing room.

The program was one of exceptional merit, and the children showed the careful and skilled training they had received. From first to last the program was carried out without a hitch. It would be difficult to select any single part and say it was best. All acquitted themselves in a highly commendable manner. The decorations

MEN FACE CHARGE OF INJURING AN OLD COUPLE

Joseph Hartz and Joseph Tomise of Fairport, W. Va., were lodged in the Monongahela jail last night charged with colluding with a machine near the Erieville station and injuring the occupants, an old man and his wife. After colluding with the machine, Hartz and his companion sneaked on their way with the intention of getting out of the vicinity as quickly as possible. However, a number of men witnessing the accident, jumped into a car and gave chase, after securing Constable Reed. When the men refused to stop after being overtaken at the Star mine, Constable Reed fired three shots into the radiator, forcing the runaways to a standstill.

A search of the car was instituted and a large quantity of booze was found. The men were taken to Monongahela and are being held in jail pending a hearing.

The machine which they are was badly damaged. The accident occurred at 7 o'clock last night.

The Same Girl

"What's the matter with you? You're not the same girl any more," I said to me again after I read your so emphatically?" inquired Miss Cagen. "My mistake," replied the young man. "Since you booked your hair and put on knickerbockers I don't know whether you were the same girl."

Not Serious

"Do not be cast down," she said. "It grieves me greatly to lose you so much pain." He bowed and smiled. "Don't worry," he said. "My proposal was just a joke, and I know whether you were the same girl."

Or New York

A southern bookseller telegraphed to a New York publisher after God. "After God," by Canon Lancelotti is the telegraphed reply. "After God in Philadelphia," by New York. Try Boston.

Perfect Committee

There are people who are put on a committee because they are not doing anything and others who are put on the committee because they are doing something. It is a wise man who knows the difference.

Francs Redeemed

Francs, super, under and served, currency. To 3 cents worth of francs and 20 cents worth of bottled cream and they are redeemed.

Clear as Mud

Said a lawyer in addressing the court, "If this argument is a bit clear, I shall be happy to have another that is equally conclusive."

Like a Thunderstorm

A big knockdown and drag-out argument is like a thunderstorm. There are mutterings and growlings for long intervals.

Put You at Ease

Most to be afraid is that good breeding that puts everyone at ease. Millions of women are like that.

WILL WELCOME MEMBERS ATTENDING DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL CONVENTION

Spoiled the Dinner

An unexpected visit of some relatives threw a North side home into a flurry in an attempt to produce a very tempting dinner for the hungry guests. As the call for dinner came, the smallest member of the family ran to the dining room and seeing the chicken, which was the crowning glory of the feast, broke out with: "Oh, mother, is that the chicken that had the broken leg?"--Columbus Dispatch.
